This might include changes in behaviour or the way they talk about a cause, or religion, or politics.

Check with Somebody

Talk to others who may know the person you are concerned about to check out whether they too are concerned.

Raise your concern with your line manager or the designated safeguarding lead in your organisation.

SHARE

Share any concerns with your local Safeguarding Service

It is important to share any concerns around radicalisation or violent extremism with safeguarding professionals so that the person you are concerned about can be protected from harm (see overleaf for details).
